FYI, the bids to have the Ked scrapped came in higher than our budget could afford by several hundred thousand dollars so DNR will be hiring someone to batten down the hatches, seal the cabin as best as possible and pump off ballast water to make the ship float higher in the water (to lessen the grounding) and then we will have to leave it and wait until we accrue more money in the derelict vessel fund or find an alternate funding source.

Thought I would keep you up to date.

Melissa
